

PREFACE

The following pages are a reprint of the July 1981 book "Our LATHEY Family" by Carmen Lathey Barron. The book outlines her research on the ancestors and descendants of George Wilman Lathey (1878-1945).

Carmen passed away on 2 Jun 1987 and the original book is now out of print. It is not the intent to update the book but to make it available to any family researcher that has a connection to the Lathey lines and related families.

Per Roger Barron, Carmen's son:

"Our LATHEY Family" is not copyrighted, so it can be reprinted, quoted, or used by others for research. As you know, this book was a labor of love straight from my mother's heart, and truth be told my father was a full time accomplice. People do not realize the time and effort he put into it, including the many hours driving to and from different courthouses, graveyards, and libraries.

The book should include all of her mistakes including spelling and punctuation. It should be presented as a collection of her research and findings concerning our family. ("Our LATHEY Family" is not a textbook.) It should be preserved for what it is. It is a work of love from my mother to all of us, and to all Latheys'. It belongs to all of us.

I originally bought a copy of this book back in the early 1980's because I am listed on page 99. I am a 1st cousin, 3 times removed of George Wilman Lathey. George's and my common ancestor is John Taylor Lathey, my Great Great Great Grandfather.

The following pages were first scanned and converted to an editable word processing format. The pages are set up approximately the same as is in the original book. The file was saved in a searchable PDF format to reduce the file size and to allow easy viewing by all. Automatic links were added to the Table of Contents to allow easy navigation to the book sections.

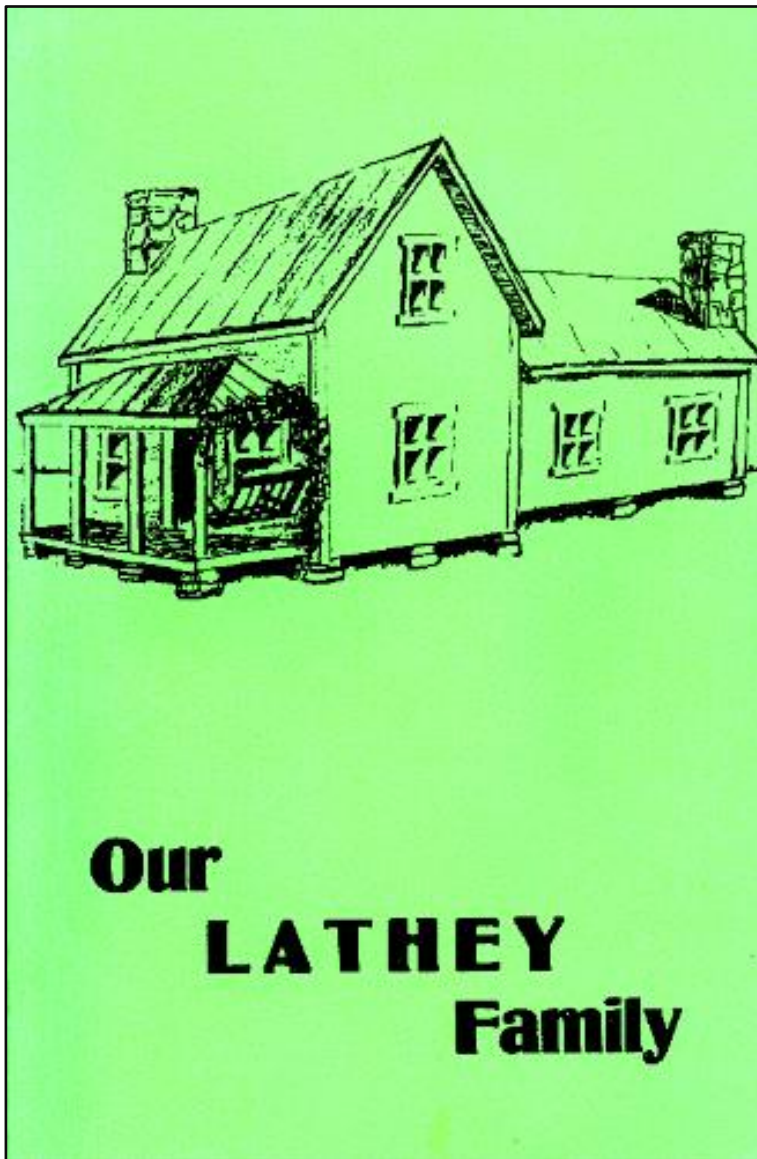

The pages are essentially like the book. Spelling and grammatical errors are included, and a typewriter font is used. The only family updates included are the ones sent out with the book on a separate paper updating 3 pages that Carmen found errors. I added an appendix with the typographical errors found so that the reader will know that the errors found are not errors of the digital conversion process.

However, in this conversion process, there may be some places that the scan-to-editable process did not convert correctly. I tried to find all these but there are no guarantees that I found them all. If you find something that does not look correct and is not part of the appendix, let me know and I can double check.

The cover sketch by Ray Lyons was taken from a charcoal drawing of George W. and Cora (Casto) Lathey's home place near Rockcastle in Jackson County, West Virginia.

Rockcastle was named for a rock cliff, shaped somewhat like a castle, located in southwestern Ripley District near the Mason-Putnam line.

INTRODUCTION

Most people have a basic curiosity about their origin. Ancestor hunting began for me as a leisurely pastime, and I have been nudged from one generation to the preceding one with an incessant zeal to determine the origin of our families.

We have to wonder what makes a person turn his eyes from his native country. I suppose the quest for excitement and adventure might be enough reason for some, but man's basic concern for his own personal welfare and economic stability with the hope of a better life for his family has been the goal for the most. No less a potent force is the person's appetite for religious freedom.

Please remember that no family history or genealogy has been written that has been free from error. I have used family legends, United States Census Records, existing County Court House Records, and background sources of history and emigration patterns of our known countries of origin. Remember also, a genealogy is never complete.

Court House Records and Census records at times are almost illegible, and at their best do not always agree with family records. Unless notified to the contrary, I have used Court House records for birth find death data. Marriage dates are mostly the date licenses were obtained, and may vary from the date the marriage actually occurred.

Where conflicting data was discovered, I attempted to use the most likely record my sincere apologies for any error or omissions. In many instances repeated efforts have been made to obtain information, but responses were not forthcoming. To all

The name of each descendant of our family is preceded by a number which will be his identification number and will help distinguish him from all others who might have the same name. Raised letters following the name indicates the number of generations known to have resided in this country.

This is how to use this paper. Turn to the end of the family index and scan backward until you locate your own family. The index shows that this family will be found on a certain page. Turn to the page listed, and you will find the father of the above. Follow each generation in this manner and you will locate our common ancestor. The related families are indexed alphabetically.

It is my wish that information contained herein will stimulate others to dig their roots deeper. Please let me know if you have any questions, or would like information on the related families.

RELATIONSHIPS

The Common or Canon Law method for figuring relationships is now in general use and gives an accurate description of "cousin relationships." The chart on the preceding page was prepared for the 7th Edition of "The How Book for Genealogists."

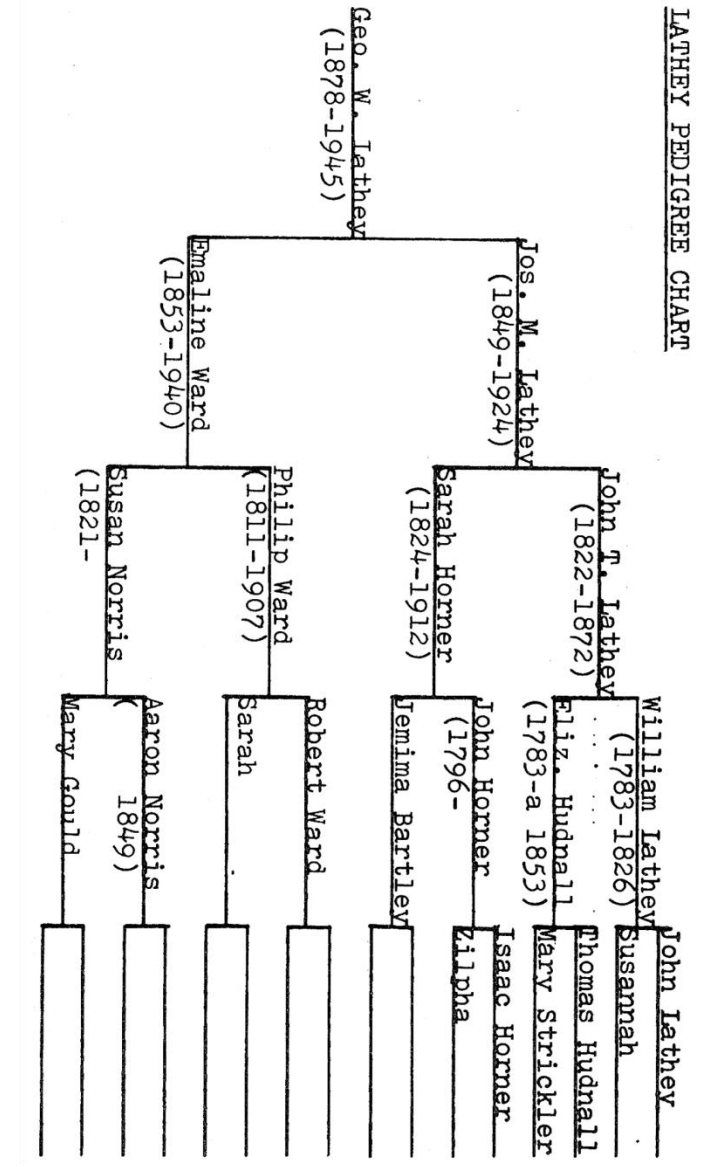

You will see the two upper columns are outlined in heavy lines. These are the common progenitor (CP) and his descendants. All the diamonds inside these heavy lines show the relationship between his descendants. By following column "1" from both sides of the chart we see they cross on the "B" diamond, showing that the sons of the common progenitor are brothers. By following column "2" to the center we find they cross at the "1C" diamond which indicates that grandsons of the common progenitor are first cousins to each other. And so on down; his great grandsons are second cousins; his second great grandsons are third cousins, etc.

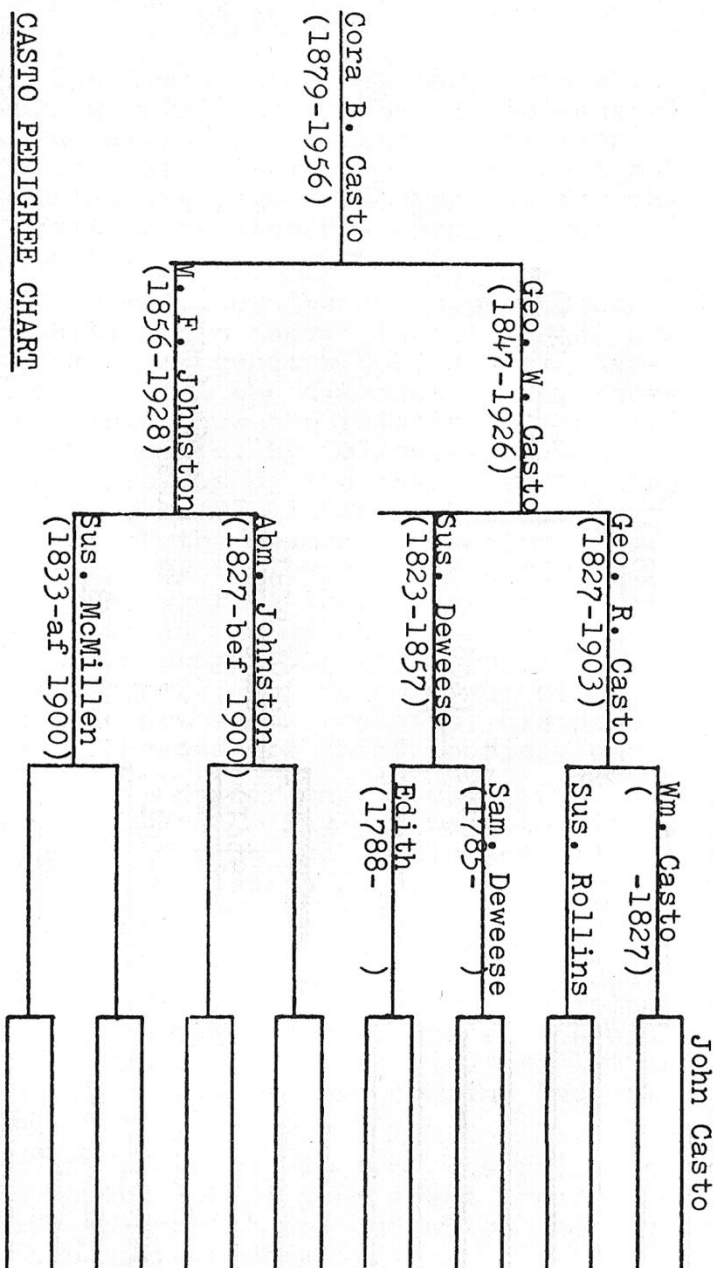

Now, consider the "cousinships" and "times removed." Say you want to figure your relationship to a distant cousin. You are the fourth generation from the common progenitor. Your cousin is the 3rd generation from the common progenitor. To figure your exact relationship, simple follow column "4" on one column and "3" on the other to where the diamonds cross and you will find "2C-1R" indicating you are second cousins once removed.

If you want to find the relationship to the son of your great grandfather follow column "1" and "3" which shows you are his grand nephew.

PEDIGREE CHARTS

LATHEY PEDIGREE CHART

FIRST GENERATION

1. JOHN LATHEY¹ was the progenitor of our Lathey family in America. He left the shores of his native Ireland more than two hundred years ago to find a new home in the American Colonies. We know not the exact time of this event, nor do we know the exact place of his departure or arrival. It was most unusual in those days for a person to venture so far from his homeland alone, but such seems the case of this young man, as we find no reference to this family name in records prior to 1778 when John Lathey's name first appeared on the Fauquier County, Virginia Rent Rolls. If John Lathey came to the Colonies with other members of his family, they maybe settled elsewhere, or did not survive the hardships of the voyage. There were families by the name of Lathe and Laythe listed on the 1790 United States Census Records in some of the New England states, but no records have been found connecting them to our Lathey line.

Family legend from all sources claim the Lathey family were of Scotch-Irish or Irish origin, and many believe the name may have been McLatha or MacLatha in the Old Country. Legend also claims they were "Lace Curtin Irish," which describes Irish-American families who had made some progress on the social scale, as distinct from the "Shanty Irish" at the bottom of the ladder.

A Lathey clan in New York state claim descent from another John Lathey who was born before 1816 in Ulster, Ireland and emigrated to America during the 1800's. (I will give their lineage at the close of this section.) It would be my theory that our John Lathey¹ also came from the northern part of Ireland and that the families are connected, although there is a span of probably fifty or sixty years between emigrations.

The National Library in Dublin, Ireland has advised they have no records for Lath-ey or MacLathe, and the Chief Herald of Ireland has informed me they have no record of a Lathey family in Ireland. The family probably did not own property. However, I see no reason to dispute family legend, and this is being written on the assumption that our John Lathey was the first by this family name to arrive in America, and that he came from Ulster, Ireland during the latter half of the 18th Century.

Ulster was that part of Ireland now known as Northern Ireland. The people of Ireland now speak the English language, but both the original Gaelic tongue and English are urged to be taught in public schools. When you see the phrase "ERIN GO BRAUGH" used around St. Patrick's Day, this means "IRELAND FOREVER" in Gaelic.

Let's recall Ireland's history and the conditions in Ireland during the 18th Century. Perhaps we can find a clue as to why John Lathey turned his eyes from his native land to plant his roots on foreign soil.

The coastal regions of the island of Ireland was inhabited before 6,000 BC by a race of hunters and fishermen who used weapons and tools of flint. According to anthropologists, they were tall, broad-shouldered men with fair complexion and red hair, a characteristic clearly discernable today in various parts of Ireland. The first farmers reached Ireland around 5,000 BC, bringing with them knowledge of crop cultivation, animal husbandry, pottery, spinning, and weaving. Metal workers reached Ireland some time around 2,000 BC, where they found rich deposits of copper and tin, the elements of bronze. They produced weapons, tools, and utensils which they used not only for domestic consumption, but also as the backbone of a rich export trade. These early Irish metal workers are best remembered for their gold ornaments of exquisite beauty now displayed in the Dublin National Museum. It is believed the Bronze Age Irish lived in comparative peace and prosperity.

The Celts, who originated in Southwest Germany, are believed to have first reached Ireland between 500-150 BC, bringing with them a life style destined to provide Ireland with its language, religion, and customs for many centuries.

St. Patrick is given credit for converting the Irish to Christianity during the 5th Century. Legend is that Patrick landed in County Down in 432 AD, and began a mission which took him the length and the breadth of Ireland preaching the Gospel and establishing churches.

Celtic Ireland was split into four provinces without an absolute ruler. There was a king for each of the provinces of Ireland, and out of these four kings a High King was chosen. Lack of unity among the provinces left her vulnerable to attack from without.

Ireland was the perfect target for the Norsemen because of its navigable inland lakes and disunited people. Sea raiders from Sweden, Denmark, and Norway established settlements on the east coast of Ireland in 795. The Vikings first plundered Iona which had been the stepping-stone between Ireland and Scotland. They first raided along the Irish coast and colonized the small islands. From there they conducted raids against the headlands and coastal areas. The raids were followed by the establishment of permanent settlements which became Ireland's first cities. First was Dublin in 841 then Cork, Limerick, Wexford, Waterford and Wicklow. The Vikings, the most efficient shipbuilders in Europe, then sailed up the rivers in their swift high-prowed Ships and attacked deep into the heart of Ireland.

The Irish were powerless to resist the ceaseless onslaught because the rulers of the provinces were too busy squabbling amongst themselves to organize a united resistance.

By the beginning of the 9th Century, the Vikings were becoming more and more integrated into the Celtic way of life. They expanded their kingdoms, virtually unchallenged, and controlled all mid and south Ireland by the middle of the 10th Century. Although totally dominated by the Norsemen, this did not prevent the Irish kings from fighting amongst themselves for the title of High King.

In 1166, the King of Leinster was driven out of Ireland, and he appealed to the King of England for help. The English invaded Ireland and their connection lasted until 1920.

English rule over Ireland was nominal for some 400 years, but all Ireland was conquered under the reigns of the Tudor sovereigns of England from 1485 to 1603. The native landowners were deprived of their estates, and much of their land was given to Englishmen. King James I of England decided to clear the whole of northern Ireland of its Irish inhabitants in 1609, and place settlers from Scotland and England in their place. The northern part of Ulster also became more and more Scottish during the 17th Century as streams of suffering Presbyterians came into that part of Ulster. These people became known as the Scotch-Irish, and this migration finally resulted in the separation of Ireland in 1920.

So, our ancestors who are apparently of Irish stock may have descended from the Celtic people of southern Germany or may have even been of ancient English descent.

The Irish people constantly demanded freedom from English rule during the 17th and 18th Centuries. The protestant settlements were the heaviest in northern Ulster, and these people opposed Irish independence because they knew that freedom for all Ireland would make them a minority group outnumbered by the large number of Roman Catholics in the southern part of Ireland.

The people outside of Northern Ireland became known as the Irish Free state in 1920, while Northern Ireland (Ulster) kept a separate government and remained a part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain. This separation has been a source of constant friction to this very day. Protestants in Northern Ireland want to remain in the United Kingdom of Great Britain, and the people of the Republic of Ireland and many Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland want the two countries united.

The religious and economic history of Ireland determined the Irish emigration into the American Colonies. Feeding the roots of emigration from Ireland in the 18th Century was poverty and religious grievances. The manufacture of linen was originally believed to be Ireland's cure for its poverty. However, it brought about hardships on which the emigration trade was to thrive. The margin of security promised by an additional income from linen was nullified by increased rents. Non-linen workers had to compete for land with those who combined the linen manufacture with farming, and so the price of all rents rose in linen districts. Rents increased during the 18th Century in the north of Ireland at a pace which far outdistanced the growth of productivity and price obtained for farm produce. The linen manufacture became more firmly rooted in Northern Ireland, and that area produced more than 4/5 of the linen marketed in Ireland by 1770. This was mainly due to the settlement of the French Hugenot weavers in that area.

Growth of the linen trade was a means of emigration for those who desired to go to America. Flaxseed used in the manufacture of linen came from America, and was by far the chief north Ireland import. As the flaxseed fleets from New York and Philadelphia anchored in the northern ports in the spring, there was ample room for emigrant passengers on the outgoing vessels as linen was substituted for flaxseed.

The arrival and departure of vessels carrying flaxseed and linen were advertised in Ireland's Newspapers (mostly in the Belfast News Letter). Very few passengers emigrated from the north Irish ports during the 18th Century other than those bound for the American Colonies. Some historians have concluded that the number of those who emigrated as servants was equal to the number who paid their passage money. Others claim the 18th Century emigrants from the north of Ireland belonged to the paying passenger class carrying not only the implements of their trade, but capital as well.

Examination of the newspaper advertisements reveal that not all those who emigrated as servants were unskilled laborers or people of menial positions. From time to time advertisements asked for servants and redemptioners of specific trade. One ad appeared in 1768 for servants and redemptioners to go to Philadelphia having the following trades: carpenters, shoemakers, tailors, wheelwrights, millwrights, weavers, smiths, cabinet makers, plasterers, millers, coopers, barbers, turners, milliners, hatters, and tanners. Few emigrant vessels did not carry the man who had staked his passage money in the hope of winning a happier life, or the man to whom happiness was worth four years of servitude.

An imigrant coming into an American port as a free man was relatively small. The imigrant needed sufficient funds to transport him to the site of his intended settlement, to pay various fees to secure his grant, to purchase the necessary seed and implements to cultivate his land, and to subsist the first harvest. Because of these heavy expenses, many who were able to pay their own passage entered into service in America, thus gaining experience and the necessary additional funds while retaining their personal liberty.

Those who emigrated, but had' no means to pay, had two ways of securing passage. The method most commonly adopted was to sign an indenture agreeing to serve the master of a ship or his assigns for an agreed period, usually four years. On landing in America, the indenture would be sold by the master to the highest bidder. Or, the emigrant could agree to pay the cost of passage within a short time after arrival, hoping to raise the necessary money from friends or by indenting himself on the best terms he could secure. If "the redemptioner" failed to raise the money within the specified time, the ship's master then sold his services to the highest bidder as in the case of an indentured servant.

Thousands were driven from the north of Ireland in the years before the American Revolution by excessive rents and breakdown of the linen trade. The decade before 1771 had been years of unprecedented prosperity in the linen trade, and the fruits of those few years of plenty enabled many to sail to the west in pursuit of a departed prosperity.

When leases expired in 1772-73, rents rose by at least 2/3 over what they had been twenty years before. Evidence given before the British House of Commons said that almost everyone of the 30,000 people who were said to have emigrated from Ireland in 1772-73 were linen workers. Reports to Parliament in 1774 from Belfast, Lisburn, and Newry pointed out that those who sailed were paying passengers in the middle class. This class saved what it could from the ruins, and invested part of the proceeds in the cost of passage to the land of hope.

We can hardly imagine the hardships endured by the emigrants during their journey to the Colonies during these times. Irish newspapers reported that the average voyage across the Atlantic between 1771-75 was seven weeks, four days. The shortest trip was 27 days and the longest 17 weeks, both from Londonderry to Philadelphia.

A speedy voyage was hoped for by all emigrants, and promised by all agents for the vessels. Conditions on the ship left much to be desired. Port holes for ventilation and light were non-existent until 1774-75 when advertisements boasted port holes for certain vessels. Shipowners felt under no obligation to provide for the safety of the passengers. Brutalities of the ship masters and misery from hunger, thirst, disease, and overcrowding reached its climax during the storms.

Hardly ever during this period did a vessel from Ireland land in Virginia. New York and Philadelphia seemed to be the desired ports of the immigrants. When they covered the lands in these areas were taken, they would work their way inward and in turn to the south by moving parallel to the Blue Ridge Mountains along the valleys into Virginia.

So, it appears our JOHN LATHEY arrived in America during the early 1770's. He probably entered the country as a free man since he was able to rent his own land as early as 1778. If, however, he came as an indentured servant, he would have had time by 1778 to work out his period of four years servitude, and able to rent his own farming land.

We do not know the birth date of John Lathey, but he must have been born about 1750 to have made the journey from Ireland and into Virginia by 1778. Nor, have we located the marriage record of John and Susannah Lathey. John may have married before his arrival in Virginia, or he may have been married in the neighboring county of Prince William whose records were "burned-out during the Civil War.

Very few rent rolls prior to 1782 in Fauquier County are available, but we find John Lathey's name listed for 1778 and 1781. His name was listed on the Personal Property Tax Records for that county in 1782 when he was assessed for one poll (himself), one horse and four cattle. The 1796, 1798, and 1799 reports show John as the only tithable with no horses, etc. The 1797 list show John paying tax on himself and one Isaac Carter. He was listed for the years 1800, 1801, 1803, and 1804 as paying tithables on himself and his son, William Lathey, with no horses, etc. The early tax records are incomplete and some years John Lathey was not listed for one reason or another.

There is no record of John Lathey serving in the colonial militia or the American Revolutionary War. However, the Public Service Claims of Fauquier County for October 6, 1780 states a certificate was given John Lathey for a bushel of rye furnished for use of the military. This may entitle him a place on the Patriot List for civil service during the Revolutionary War.

John Lathey's name is found twice in a published book giving abstracts of the Fauquier County wills, inventories, and accounts for 1759-1800. He is mentioned on John Hathaway's Administrators Account dated September 19, 1793, and his name appears on the receipt list on the account of Joseph Smith dated October 24, 1785, along with Joseph Hudnall.

The names of John and Susannah Lathey appear as witnesses to the marriage of Isaac Carter and Lydia Newstead July 24, 1793 in Fauquier County. This couple may have been related in some way as they lived in the same household when taxes were paid for Isaac by John Lathey in 1797.

There is no further records available in Fauquier County after the 1806 taxes were assessed for that year. The assessments were made during the months between March and June and John was taxed for himself and one horse. He was not listed on the 1810 Virginia Census.

SECOND GENERATION

2. WILLIAM LATHEY² was born in Fauquier County, Virginia to John and Susannah Lathey in late 1783 or early 1784.
William was sixteen years old when the taxes were assessed in 1800 when his father began paying poll tax for him. The Episcopal Church was the Church of Virginia and taxes were assessed in the local parishes as early as 1662 when all male persons of age sixteen and up were considered tithable. This was true up until Virginia passed an Act in 1782 which specified "a tax of one shilling be paid on every free male person above the age of twenty-one years who shall be a citizen of the Commonwealth, also two shillings for each horse, mare, colt, mule, etc." Although it was the law not to tax a male person until he was twenty-one years of age, some of the parishes continued the practice of taxing the sixteen year olds. Such was the case in Fauquier County when the assessments were made during the months from May until June.

William Lathey made application for a marriage bond on January 13, 1806 in Fauquier County to marry Elizabeth Hudnall. Elizabeth was the daughter of Thomas and Mary Ann (Strickler) Hudnall and was born circa 1783 in Fauquier County. A penalty of $150.00 was required if the marriage did not take place within a certain period of time, and her father was the bondsman for the marriage bond.

William and Elizabeth immediately set up housekeeping and began to raise their family. They were listed on the Census of 1810 with one male child and one female child between the ages of 1-10 years.

They began their migration into Ohio sometime during the years 1815-16. The 1820 Athens County, Ohio Census records William Lathey with a family of five female children, four between 0-10 years and one between 10-16 years. The male child listed on the 1810 Census was not carried over to 1820, so we must assume he died before the Census was taken.

When the agent of the Ohio Company applied to Congress in 1787 for the purchase of land in Ohio, he followed the practice of the New England states and insisted that two townships of land be appropriated for the support of a university in order that all who might aspire to a higher education than that offered by the common schools should have the opportunity of acquiring same. Provisions were made for Townships 8 and 9 of the 14th Range of the Ohio River Survey as a perpetual endowment for a university. These embraced Alexander and Athens Townships of Athens County with each containing 36 square miles subdivided into "farm lots" of various sizes.

Two unsuccessful attempts to lease the land for maintenance of a university were made in 1802 and 1804. The leases were so unpopular that people did not wish to lease land when it could be purchased in some areas for $1.00 per acre. The Ohio University was finally established February 18, 1804, and the legislature then authorized the trustees of the University to lease the land "for the term of ninety nine years, renewable forever, with a fixed annual rent of six percentum on the appraised valuation." These terms were satisfactory with the people and leases were readily made.

It was on these lands that William Lathey and his family settled. There is record of two parcels of land leased and/or owned by William Lathey in Alexander Township of said county. His original lease witnessed by Thomas Hudnall and William Thompson was for 152.23 acres of the Ohio University College Land located in Section 19, Lot #4. The lease was dated April 16, 1821 with an annual rent of $11.42.

William leased the east half of this survey (76.11) to his brother-in-law, Thompson Hudnall, on November 8, 1822 at a yearly rent of $9.71 to be paid the University. Thompson did not honor this lease, and the land went back to William Lathey. I have followed this lease thru 1883, and it was still listed as the lease of William Lathey and the rent was still $11.42 yearly. The land had been divided and the rent was being paid as follows:

50.00 acres	E. Hamilton	$5.71
30.00 acres	O. H. Woodyard	1.61
50.00 acres	M. J. Yancy	2.84
22.23 acres	Hugh Reeves	1.26

William Lathey died in May of 1826 in Athens County, Ohio. His will (B. 1, p. 80) reads as follows:

"In the name of God, Amen. I, William Lathey of Alexander Township, Athens County, Ohio, being weak in body but of sound and perfect mind and memory, blessed be to Almighty God for the same, do make and publish this my last will and Testament, in manner and form following, that is to say. First, I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife, Elizabeth Lathey, all my real and personal estate so long as she remains my Widow, with this reserve only. I give and bequeath unto my only son, John Lathey, my rifle gun and a good horse out of my personal property to be delivered to him when he becomes twenty-one years of age. It is my furthur will that if my wife should during her lifetime marry another man, that all my estate, real and personal, be equally divided amongst my children, but if she does not marry, then an equal division at the time of her death. Elizabeth Lathey, my wife, I hereby appoint sole executrix of this my last will and Testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this first day of April A.D. 1826."

S/ William (his mark) Lathey

The will was witnessed by Thomas Hudnall, Daniel Dudley, and Joseph (his mark) Hudnall. It was proved by the oaths of Joseph and Thomas Hudnall and admitted for probate June 1, 1826 when Elizabeth was appointed executrix.

The Auditor's Office in Athens County has record of Elizabeth (Betsey) Lathey paying taxes on one horse and two cows during 1827, 1830 and 1834. The horse was valued at $40.00 and the cows $16.00. In 1848 the heirs of William Lathey were assessed taxes on 102.23 acres of land valued at $340.00 for a tax of $4.88.7. Elizabeth was not able to pay the taxes for 1847 and 1848, and this property was sold at public auction by E. H. Moore, Auditor of Athens County 8 January 1848. The deed reads in part as follows:

"one hundred and two acres in the southwest part of Lot #4 in Section 17 for the sum of Four Dollars Eighty-eight cents and seven mills being the amount of the tax, penalty and interest charged and due for the year 1847 and tax of 1848, in the name of William Lathey heirs."

The property was paid for by Amos Thompson, but the deed was made to John Lathe and Richard Reeves, 2nd. Although the sale was made in 1849, it was not recorded until February 25, 1853 when a quit claim deed was made for "1/8 part of land whereon Elizabeth Lathey now resides to contain 100 acres more or less" to Richard Reeves, 2nd.

Elizabeth would have been seventy years of age when the above document was dated. She died between February, 1853 and the summer of 1860 as she was not listed on the 1860 Census. We do not know the burial sites of William or Elizabeth.

3. BETSEY LATHEY² was born to John and Susannah Lathey between 1785-1790 in Fauquier County, Virginia. Approval for her marriage to John Sudduth was given by her parents March 8, 1806 in Fauquier County.

William Allison was bondsman for the marriage bond. The document was also witnessed by George Comstock (?). Sometimes a marriage bond was witnessed by a grandparent. However, careful research has not revealed that either of the above were relatives of the family.

I have been unable to locate additional information on Betsey's family because of the variant spellings of the Sudduth (Suddoth, Suddarth, Suddith, etc.) surname. The name Suddoth appears in Meigs and Athens Counties in Ohio, but to this date, I find no connection.

THE HUDNALL FAMILY

The surname of HUDNALL had its origin in England. This information comes to me by way of a Mr. Richard Claude Hudnall of San Diego, California. He is now preparing a paper to be submitted to the library in Salt Lake City, Utah, and has sent me portions of same documenting descent from England. I have condensed his information considerably and added from my own research.

Let's go back in history to the Anglo-Saxon England, a nation created by the Germanic tribes of Angles, Saxons, and Jutes that settled in England during the 400's and 500's. The seven Anglo-Saxon kingdoms of Kent, Essex, Sussex, Wessex, Northumberland, East Anglia, and Mercia ruled England between 500-800 forming the so-called heptarchy, warring among themselves from about 600 to 825.

Raiders from Denmark began to attack England in the early 800's, and Wessex was the only kingdom that could resist the Vikings.

HUDA, a minister of the King of Wessex and Ealderman of Surrey, was killed in a battle fought on the Isle of Thanet in 853. Some 350 years later, record is found of a hamlet named after HUDA in the counties of Buckingham and Hertford. HUDNALL was located in the hills called the Chilteras. In Lewis' "Typographical Dictionary of England of 1831," HUDNALL is given as being a hamlet in the Parish of Edlesborough, co. Buckingham, with a population of 91. Edlesborough was comprised of the chapelry of Dagnall and the hamlets of Hudnall and Northall. As of 1972, the hamlet seems to have completely disappeared with only a few visible signs of Hudnall Park, Hudnall Cottage, etc. verifying that a village had once existed.

The custom of having two or more names was introduced in England by the Norman invaders (1066), and became common around 1200 when the Crusaders carried the custom of family names from Italy to the other countries of western Europe. Adopted first by the wealthy and noble people in England, the custom became the mark of a gentleman.

Later, the common people began to use family names, and the names have come to us in various ways. They have grown out of a person's characteristics, occupation, surroundings, etc.

A document translated from ancient Latin and dated 1200-0J lists the name of Roberto de Hudenhale. Translation of this would be Robert of Hudnall. Documents of England dated from about 1200 to 1500 show how the name evolved from Hudenhale, Hodenhale, Hudnale, Hudnoll.

It is apparent from the above that the HUDNALL family did not descend from HUDA, but that the family was named after the hamlet of HUDNALL.

The name of HUDNALL (or a similar version) began to appear in England in 1568 when a John Hudnoll paid tax in the co. of Hertford. The variant spellings discovered in my research of Hudnall, Hudnel, Hudnole, Hudlin, etc. indicates they are of the same family.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth of England, a John Hudnole of North Berkhamsted, co. Hertford left a will dated 22nd April 1581 with Legatees of William, John, Henry, Mary and Alice. The given names of these children have been used in the Hudnall families down through the many years.

Dick Hudnall's research indicates the Hudnall name was principally found at Berkhamsted, co. Hertford, which is only three miles from Hudnall. Marriages, baptisms, and wills of Hudnole, Hudnoll, Hudnell, and Hudnall are found in the records of St. Peter's parish in Berkhamsted, co. Hertford, from 1566 til 1800.

So, it is established that HUDNALL is an English name. But, what about the French connection?

James Hudnall of Imperial Beach, California claims "the name Hudnall means the neighbor on the other side of the hill, and the family came from a town in France near Germany. They left France because of religious persecution. The religious sect was the Hotentotz." This probably refers to the Hugenot sect.

There is also reference made to the French origin in "Soldiers of the Revolution" (Vol. 2, p. 186) which states "Thomas Hudnall's family was driven from France in 1685." We certainly cannot contradict this as the information was given many years ago by a direct descendant of Thomas Hudnall.

It is probable that a branch of the family crossed the English Channel into France for one reason or another. The search for religious freedom was one of the reasons for moving from one country to another in those days. In reviewing the history of France, we find that 1685 was the year France lost half a million Hugenot people because Louis XIV revoked the Edit of Nantes which had granted tolerance and freedom of worship to the Huguenot people.

The Hugenot people were French protestants who held their first synod there in 1559. The new Hugenot Church was accepted at first, but alternately experienced high favor and outrageous persecution. The Hugenots were respected and highly accomplished workers realizing they must produce what they consumed. However, they began to leave France for other protestant countries with each recurring wave of persecution as early as 1598 - a movement that continued for over one hundred years. The Hugenots immigrated into the American Colonies directly from France or indirectly from other Protestant countries of Europe.

France suffered a loss they could ill afford through the emigration of the intelligent and capable Hugenots, while America reaped the rewards as the Hugenot people gathered their experience and talents to help build a new nation. The Hugenots supplied the colonies with excellent physicians and a large number of artisans and craftsmen; for instance, Irene DuPont who had learned how to make gunpowder in France, and Apollos Revoire, the father of Paul Revere, who created unforgettable articles of silver and copper.

It is said the HUDNALL coat of arms itself is English, but with three fleurs de lis which is an emblem closely associated with the Kingdom of France.

We do not know exactly when the first Hudnall entered the American Colonies. It is evident that some of the family left their homeland before 1655. Records in Northumberland County, Virginia reveal that a John Hudnall of Isle of Wight County purchased 500 acres of land on November 20, 1655 from Thomas Saffall of New England. He had a brother named Henry. And left a minor male child (John born 1645) in the guardianship of William Downing. Young John registered his cattle brand X and X= at Northumberland County Court House January 20, 1666-67.

So, the early Hudnalls were landowners and lived in Northumberland County, Virginia. Many still live in the area. In fact, the land still remains in the Hudnall family with a two century-old house named WICOMICO VIEW still occupied by Hudnall descendants. Wicomico View acquired its name from its location in full view of the Great Wicomico River.

In 1727, a John Hudnall of Northumberland County obtained over 400 acres of land from the original proprietors in Pr. William County, Virginia. A few years later, some of the Northumberland Hudnall families held land in Fauquier County. And others appeared on the Rent Rolls in Prince William and Fauquier Counties.

The Hudnalls were a literate and religious family, serving on the Vestries of the Episcopal Church in their respective parishes. Until 1786, the Episcopal Church was the Church of Virginia. The parish was an administrative unit of the English Church supported by parochial taxation and governed by the local Vestry under laws enacted by the Assembly. The persons who were tithable (taxable) consisted of all male persons, sixteen years and up.

It was required that all births, marriages and deaths be recorded on the parish register of the assigned parishes. However, this was not always done. Many of the parish registers have been destroyed, thus making research impossible in many of the Virginia counties.

It is said the first Hamilton Parish register of Prince William County (where I am sure the Hudnall family attended) was placed in the County Clerk's office for safekeeping after being taken from the hands of the careless ministers. This register was "torn up, page by page, by the clerks and others for the purpose of lighting cigars and pipes."

Realizing it is dangerous to speculate on pedigrees, I will do so only to stimulate research. I have evidence to support my theory, but not enough to substantiate absolute lineage to the Hudnall family prior to that of Thomas Hudnall, the father of Elizabeth Hudnall who married William Lathey in 1806. Until further evidence is uncovered, I will not attempt to connect the family of Thomas Hudnall to the Northumberland line or to the English or French lines. The many Hudnalls by the given name of John Thomas, William, Richard and Joseph cannot be sorted into individual families at the present time. It seems each member of each generation held to the practice of using the same given names.

Now, let's become acquainted with my generation's 4th great grandfather Hudnall.

THOMAS HUDNALL, one of our Revolutionary fathers, was born in Fauquier County, Virginia during 1760. His early childhood days were spent in the newly formed county of Fauquier, which had been organized in 1759 from Prince William County. The new county was named for Francis Fauquier, the son of a Hugenot doctor and Lt. Governor of Virginia. Thomas Jefferson describes Fauquier as the ablest man that ever held the office. Fauquier County is now claimed to be one of the wealthiest of all Virginia counties.

Thomas Hudnall enlisted in the Continental Army for service in the Revolutionary War at Fauquier County Court House in October of 1778 when just eighteen years of age. He served his country against the common enemy of England as a private soldier in the Company commanded by Capt. Elias Edmond in Colonel Thomas Marshall's Regiment for about a year, principally in Garrisons at Little York, Virginia at which time he was discharged by a written discharge for reason of sickness.

Sometime in the year 1779 or 1780, he enlisted at Richmond, Virginia for the duration of the War. He served faithfully in the Company commanded by Capt. Ambrose Bohannon in Colonel Charles Harrison's Regiment of Artillery, and was engaged in three major battles of the war. He was in the Battle at Camden, South Carolina (Aug. 16, 1780) commanded by General Horatio Gates and General Johann de Kalb against Britian's General George Cornwallis. Gates took command in North Carolina in July of 1780 to lead the attempt to contain the British in the South. His army numbered 4,000, including almost 2,000 Continentals from Washington. When he began a slow march against the British supply base at Camden. On the morning of August 16, Britian's Cornwallis with a force of only two thousand surprised the Americans just north of the town. After a series of incredible blunders by Gates, almost half of the American army was killed or captured, while many of the survivors simply disappeared. Congress then relieved Gates and appointed Nathaniel Greene to command this effort, just as George Washington had suggested in the beginning. Realizing he was not strong enough to attack Cornwallis' main force, Greene quickly tried to rebuild the army that has been shattered at Camden.

Thomas was engaged in the desperate battle at Guilford Courthouse, North Carolina on March 15, 1781 when Greene with 4,000 men and reinforcements from Virginia clashed with Cornwallis. The Americans outnumbered the British almost two to one and almost won the battle until Cornwallis turned his artillery on both British and American troops engaged in hand-to-hand fighting. Greene withdrew and Cornwallis claimed a victory, although it cost him over 500 casualties, almost 25 per cent of his force of around 2,000.

He served in the Siege of Ninety-Six in South Carolina (May 22-June 19, 1781) again commanded by General Nathaniel Greene against Britian's Lt. Commander John Gruen. Although all three of the battles were considered victories by the British, by fall Greene had regained control of the area with the lone exception of Charleston, South Carolina. Cornwallis' army surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown October 19, 1781.

Thomas was discharged by Col. Wood at Winchester, Virginia in August of 1783, shortly before the United States and Great Britian signed the final peace treaty in Paris on September 3, 1783. His discharge was lodged by him in the Auditor's Office at Richmond where he obtained his wages and Land Warrant. He was awarded 100 acres of land located in Sharon Township, Franklin County, Ohio. Thomas did not claim this acreage, but assigned it to Eppa Hubbard October 29, 1784.

We can be proud of this ancestor who was devoted to the cause of gaining independence from the mother country of England.

We shall now consider him as husband and father. Thomas Hudnall married Mary Ann Strickler before his discharge from the service, or immediately thereafter. No record of their marriage has been found.

The couple took up residence in Fauquier County and resided there for over thirty years. Thomas Hudnall was listed on the Personal Property Tax Lists for that county from 1785 through 1816. At that time, it is believed he began his migration across Virginia to settle in Alexander Township of Athens County, Ohio. It may be they lived in Kanawha County for a while as two of their daughters were married there, and it appears many of the Hudnalls from Fauquier settled in Kanwha County.

Thomas was a family man witnessing to many important documents for his children. His love for the children is also evidenced in his will when he left his estate in trust for his daughter, Judah, appointing a guardian for her so as not to burden the other children.

Thomas was entitled to a pension for his service in the Revolutionary War, and he made application for same November 4 1820. The application reads as follows:

"I do solemnly swear that I was a resident citizen on the 18th day of March 1818, and that I have not since that time by gifts, sale, or in any manner, disposed of my property or any part thereof with intent thereby so to diminish it as to bring myself within the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled 'an Act to provide for certain persons engaged in the land and naval services of the United States in the Revolutionary War' passed 18th March 1818, and that I have not nor has any person in trust for me, any property or securities, contracts or debts due to me, nor have I any income other than that is contained in the schedule hereto annexed and by me subscribed.

Thomas Hudnall's burial site is located in the Bolen Cemetery in Athens County, Ohio (Section I3, Range 14, Township 8), and marked with a Revolutionary Soldier marker. It is said he walked out his cabin door a short time before his death, measured off his grave and placed a stick in the ground not more than twenty feet from his cabin door. A short time afterwards his son found him dead in his cabin where he lived alone. His wife is probably buried on the same property.

Some claim Thomas Hudnall was the only son born into a family of girls belonging to Joseph Hudnall. The story is that Joseph Hudnall was born in 1740 in Prince William (now Fauquier) County, Virginia. He lived to be ninety-five years of age and is reportedly buried under a sycamore tree near the spot his son, Thomas, rests. It is told a riding whip was stuck at the head of Joseph's grave during the burial of his son.

There were at least four Joseph Hudnalls residing in Fauquier County during the years 1760-1800. Discrepancies arise in determining which Joseph was the father of our Thomas, thus there is a question about the mother of Thomas.

There is record of a Joseph Hudnall marrying Mary Taylor, daughter of Benjamin, on November 30, 1759 in Fauquier County. This certainly coincides with the birth date of our Thomas Hudnall. However, Revolutionary War records show this Joseph died in 1779.

One source gives two references to the marriage of Joseph Hudnall. The above marriage is given, also mentioned is the marriage of a Joseph Hudnall from Fauquier County to Sarah Taylor, daughter of Benjamin. However, in checking the family of Benjamin Taylor, there is mention of a daughter Mary and no Sarah in some sources, while others mention a daughter Sarah and no Mary. It would simplify matters if we could determine

Mary and Sarah were sisters and both daughters of Benjamin Taylor. Then we could account for the given name of Taylor being used in both our Hudnall and Lathey lines.

It is believed the following marriages from the Fauquier County, Virginia marriage records are the daughters of, Joseph Hudnall and sisters of our Thomas Hudnall. The signature of Joseph Hudnall, the father, appear to be the same. And the signature of Thomas Hudnall, bondsman for one of the marriages, matches the signature of our Thomas on other documents.

1. Elizabeth Hudnall marr. John Proctor December 21, 1786. John's name appears on a document verifying service of our Thomas in the War. Family settled in Kanawha County, Virginia as early as 1796.
2. Nancy Hudnall marr. John Day August 23, 1790.
3. Molly Hudnall marr. Richard Williams December 27, 1790.

THE STRICTER FAMILY

The ancestry of Mary Ann Strickler (1763-1841/42) takes us back to the Palatinate countries of the Old German Empire and into 'the German settlements in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia.

The Palatinates were two countries located in the southern part of Germany; later known as Bavaria. The so-called Palatines left their homes by the thousands in the early 18th Century, swarming down the Rhine River to Rotterdam to await passage to England on their way to the American Colonies.

The passenger lists of the transportation of these German people into the port of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania have been preserved and are most complete. It is here we find the import of the Strickler families

Henry Strickler (Henrich Strickeller) was among the first to arrive in 1727, and others by the, names of 'Johannes, Elias, Ulrich, and Abraham with their families came by 1754.

Germans had been immigrating to Pennsylvania since 1683 and settling first around Philadelphia. As the number of immigrants increased by the turn of the century, they began to filter onto the fertile soil of eastern Pennsylvania. Land speculators 'then began exploring for new land in the valley to the southwest' of the Blue Ridge mountains along the Shenandoah River.

Jacob "Stover (Stauber) was among the promoters instrumental in bringing many Germans into the Valley. He was issued his first land grants in June of 1734, but not before he had already sold 4,000 acres to Mennonite families who had settled the Massanutten colony in 1727. The Massanutten colony, located between the Blue Ridge and the Massanutten range, was the first German settlement in the Shenandoah Valley for which there is documentation, and it comprised much of today's Page County.

Inhabitants of the Massanutten colony were mostly church people from Southern Germany; Lutherans and Reformed and partly Mennonites from Switzerland and the Palatinates. It was among these Germans in the Shenandoah Valley that the United Brethren Church in Christ had its beginning as the sole German denomination of American origin. This denomination organized by Philip Otterbein became the Evangelical United Brethren, and is now known as The United Methodist Church.

Up until this time, the migration of settlers east of the mountains was touched only by a German settlement in the northwestern section of Loudoun County as evidenced by land grants which refer to Dutchman's Creek. Some sixty families had crossed over from Maryland and took up residence from the Potomac on south in the Piedmont area.

The commonly applied term "Dutchmen" included both Hollanders and Germans. By and large the Germans did not seem to mind being called "Dutch," a term bearing close resemblance to their own word "deutsch." The informal term "Dutch" more and more supplanted the formal designation "German." Both have been interchangeable for a long time.

No sooner was it known in the Williamsburg area that northerners were promoting settlements behind the mountains than the planters of eastern Virginia were alerted to the opportunities beckoning in the west. Included among the Virginians who tried to get in on the land grab were the Germans of the piedmont area. The sons of several Piedmont families settled in the Shenandoah Valley in subsequent years. Among them was Abraham Strickler of the Massanutten area who sold considerably to Germans coming into Virginia.

Following the coming of many additional families to the Massanutten tract, the migration to New Virginia assumed the proportion of a tide. Germans and Scotch-Irish where are now Lancaster, Berks, Chester, Philadelphia and Montgomery Counties in Pennsylvania sold their farmland, packed their belongings and drove stock and wagons south via Pack Horse Ford just above Harpers Ferry. Land prices were low in this area despite the fact Shenandoah land reached settlers only after original grantee and possibly a middle man.

Some had gone ahead and seen the land, but most just heard about it and followed One Moravian leader said of this movement into the Shenandoah Valley: "The migration of men are like movement of a flock of sheep. Where one goes, the flock follows without knowing why." However, some who ventured into the Valley knew precisely what they expected of the new country. They had heard the lands in the Colony of Virginia were rich and good, and they were "inclined to bear the burdens of danger and hardships in hopes to provide not only for themselves, but to prevent, as much as possible, the slavery of their posterity." The majority had previous experience in clearing virgin land in New York and Pennsylvania.

There was little choice for the newcomers but to engage in farming. The Germans were attracted to the limestone soil in western Virginia where the principal crops were rye, barley wheat oat, and hemp which had been produced in abundance on their fertile soil in the Palatinates in Germany.

The first permanent homes were one or two room log houses, preferable near a stream. The Germans made their dwellings weather-tight by using clay and wood chinking as a filler for the space between the squared-off logs joined at the corners by fitting a gable-cut log and under board-angled notches. The native limestone which was to provide material for many a stately home in the German settlement found its first use as building material for chimneys. Many of the two-room cabins had center chimneys, no doubt as substitute for the iron stoves to which the South German farmers were accustomed in Europe.

One of the first specialized trades developed in the Valley was milling. Numerous flour and grist mills were built on water courses. Many of the Germans had once learned a trade, and as neighborhoods developed, part-time work evolved for blacksmiths, wagonmaker, cabinet-maker, weaver, and shoemaker. Not all Germans in Eastern Virginia were immigrants. Some were contracted to perform highly skilled tasks. Papermaker Conrad Sheets (Schutz) was hired by the Williamsburg printer William Parks, in 1742 to construct the first paper mill in Virginia. Sheets left Virginia after completion of the Mill and was a paper manufacturer in Philadelphia from 1748 until 1769.

Liquor was freely used in the German settlements and stills were to be found on all larger farms. It was not shocking in those days that the inventory of the estate of Mennonite preacher ABRAHAM STRICKLER of Massanutten listed "two stills and proper implements" plus "60 gallons of liquor." Most of the imigrant generation could tolerably read and write. Abraham Strickler's earthly possessions in 1746 included "8 small Dutch books, a large Dutch Bible and some old books."

The Germans of the Shenandoah Valley were public minded citizens. When George Washington was elected into his first elected office in Frederick ,County July 24, 1758, forty-nine of his three hundred votes were cast by German freeholders, among them Jacob Strickler" Jacob Stover, and John Baumgartner.

It was difficult for members of the religious sects to support their own ministers and also contribute to the keeping of the English parish priests as required by the State. Also, they were affected by a decision of local officials to enforce fines for evading malitia service because of their religious dissent. The Virginia Malitia was first organized in 1611 and was made up of all white males between the ages of sixteen and sixty. In November of 1769 Jacob Strickler petitioned the Assembly to be exempted from such penalties because "they are forbidden by the Dictate of Conscience to bear Arms. "Strickler renewed his appeal in March of 1772, and it was judged "Reasonable" and a clause was included in the malitia bill for exempting the dissenting Protestants called Monists from performing military duty.

Although many were exempt from military duties because of conscientious objections, the Germans provided many services throughout the Revolutionary War. They provided medical services to the troops, contributed a considerable share of supplies and services, and most came through voluntary contributions. During the years 1780-81 the Massanutten settlement provided 20,000 pounds of beef for the troops. John Shank, the blacksmith, made horseshoes for the mounted troops. Sebastian Strickler furnished the products of his distillery because the soldiers, too, needed a drink.

I have been unable to zero in on the parents of Mary Ann (Strickler) Hudnall. There is one entry in "Fauquier Wills, Administrations, and Inventories" relating to Strickler (no given name) April 25, 1774. Other Virginia entries of Census Records for 1790 list only Stricklers in Shenandoah County.

11. JOHN TAYLOR LATHEY³ was born May 27 1822 in Alexander Township, Athens County, Ohio to William and Elizabeth (Hudnall) Lathey.

He was raised in the area where he was born to a big man standing 6'1½" tall with light complexion, blue eyes and black hair. He was married in Meigs County, Ohio April 21, 1842 to Sarah Horner. Sarah was born July 27, 1824 in Tyler County, (W)Virginia to John and Jemima (Bartley) Horner.

John and Sarah set up housekeeping in Athens County near other members of John's family. The 1850 Census Records list his occupation as a farmer, and the 1860 Census shows his wealth comparative to that of his neighbors with real estate valued at $1,000 and personal property worth $250

Then Civil War began and John Lathey volunteered for service shortly after President Abraham Lincoln issued a call for Union Troops, leaving his wife and nine children to suffer civilian hardships greater than in any other American war. Sometimes called the War of the Rebellion or the War Between the States, the men who wore the gray uniforms of the Confederacy and the blue uniforms of the Union fought and died for what they thought was right. John volunteered in Company E of the 75th Regiment of the Ohio Infantry November 9, 1861. The 75th Regiment moved considerably, but nothing of importance occurred in the history of the 75th until the Battle of Chancellorsville May 1-5, 1863. The Union Army of the Potomac outnumbered the Confederate Army two to one, but Lee's army still held the Rappahannock line. General Joseph Hooker devised an excellent plan more daring than any Union commander had ever shown before, and if his plan had been executed aggressively, it would have almost certainly guaranteed the destruction of Lee's Army of Northern Virginia. Hooker was perfectly confident of his success and the plan seemed about to succeed, when he hesitated and moved his troops to a defensive position at Chancellorsville. Lee was aware of Hooker's action and boldly moved to attack sending Andrew Jackson, his ablest general, to attack Hooker's right while he attacked the front. This attack on May 2, 1863 cut the Union army in half, and Hooker retreated four days later. It was in this battle that Andrew Jackson was fatally wounded, and our John T. Lathey taken prisoner by the Confederate Army and held until October of 1863.

After the fall of Savannah, the 75th was sent to Jacksonville, Florida where John was mustered-out with his company on January 15, 1865.

John Lathey returned home to his wife and family never again able to do a full days work. He removed his family to Meigs County (Scipio Township), Ohio where he purchased forty acres of land from Josiah Bice on September 25, 1865, and 95 acres from Edward Samuels of Boston on December 26, 1867 for $1,050.00. The 1870 Census valued his real estate at $2,000. with personal property valued at $600.00. Sixty acres of the above real estate was sold to Jeremiah Reeves September 26, 1870.

John T. Lathey died in Meigs County, Ohio May 9, 1872. His wife applied for her widow's pension for John's service during the Civil War on March 22, 1879. Her application was contested and her pension file holds some 140 pages of documents and depositions concerning the case. The following depositions tell the story of John Lathey as given to Special Examiner Amos L. Allen from the government Pension Office.

Sarah Lathey's inquisition was dated October 16, 1884 and reads as follows:

Q. State your name, age, occupation, and residence.

A. My name is Sarah Lathey, age 60 years; my occupation housekeeping; and residence and post office address is Harrisonville, Meigs County, Ohio.

Q. Were you the wife of and now the widow of John T. Lathey late a Private in Company E 75th Ohio Volunteers.

A. Yes sir.

Q. State when and where your late husband, John T. Lathey died, the disease of which he died and the length of his last sickness.

A. He died May 9, 1872 near Downingtown in Scipio Township, Meigs County, Ohio of a disease which the doctor called an aneurism, a disease contracted by him as he claimed in the U. S. service.

The lump or tumor which he had on his side broke and he lived but a few days, not more than two or three days.

Q. What was Mr. Lathey's employment for five years before his enlistment in the service?

A. He was a shoemaker and had a farm and worked at both, and did some carpenter work.

Q. Did he have any sickness of any kind prior to enlistment.

A. I don't remember that he had and I remember of only two sick spells while I lived with him before enlistment.

Q. What was Mr. Lathey's physical condition when he came home from the army after discharge?

A. He was poorly when he came home and had quite a sick spell with the ague and wasn't able to do anything for a long time. He complained of his side from the first when he got home and talked a good deal about it and told us what the doctor said about it in Florida. He was in a hospital in Florida just before he got home, but I can't tell the place, but I think the doctor's name was Weed, who had charge of it.

Q. What did this Dr. Weed tell him?

A. He said he told him that he was liable to die at any time, and he better get discharged and go home.

Q. Did you see and feel of his side where his trouble was when he first came home?

A. I can't say as I remember a certain time. He complained of it - and no doubt I have felt his side a great many times.

Q. What was the circumstances under which he claimed that he got the injury in his side?

A. He called it building corduroy roads at Brooks Station (Centreville) or near there in Virginia. He was lugging a log and felt a kind of stinging sensation in his side.

Q. Did he ever say he was treated for it in the service by a surgeon or in a hospital?

A. Yes sir, but he said they all said they couldn't do anything for it only he must be careful.

Q. Can you name any surgeon that he said treated him or the name of the Hospital he was in?

A. He was in the hospital first after he got hurt at Georgetown, D. C. (Presbyterian Church USA General Hospital) but don't know that he was treated for his side. He was in a Hospital in Folly Island, South Carolina but don't know what for, and one in Florida just before his discharge. I only remember the name of Weed as surgeon that had charge of hospital in Florida.

Q. What employment did Mr. Lathey follow after his return from the army?

A. He worked a little on the farm and at some other kinds of work. Didn't do any shoemaking, but worked a little at carpentering. He would do a few days work and others he would do hardly anything.

Q. Give the names and date of birth of your children by said John T. Lathey under sixteen years of age at the date of his death?

A. Sarah Angeline Lathey was born March 26, 1857, Electa Jane Lathey was born April 14, 1860, Elva Alfetta Lathey born May 8, 1867, and Charles Clark Lathey born December 25, 1869.

Q. State the women who were present at their births.

A. Martha A. Reeves was working for me when Sarah was born and she is the only person living who was present then, and Lydia Davis was present at the birth of Electa Jane. Nancy R. Riggs and Susannah E. Graham were present when Elva was born.

A deposition dated August 28, 1886 was given by J. Alexander Westfall, son-in-law of John T. Lathey, and reads as follows:

My name is J. A. Westfall. My age is 44 years. My residence and post office address is Burlingham, Meigs County, Ohio. I was born in the County of Athens, principally raised in Meigs. I was well acquainted with John T. Lathey who was a private in the 75th Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry: and have known him ever since I can remember.

He got home a little before I did from the Army. We were intimate friends before I married his daughter. At the time I returned from the Army, John T. Lathey was complaining of his side and said he was unable to work at times. He was not able to work more than half of his time. My residence was within three hundred yards of his house from the time I got home until he died.

Two days before he died in the afternoon, I went past his place and asked him to go with me for company to a place I was going to do a job of work. While going to the place we went past a spring of water, and he lay down to drink. When he arose from the spring he complained of his side hurting more than common. He went to the place where I was to do the work and shortly after returned home. When I got through my work I went back past his house. When I arrived at his place I saw one of his daughters, a child 8 or 9 yrs. old, outside the house crying bitterly. I asked her what was the matter. She said her father was dying. I went into the house and asked Mr. Lathey what was the matter. He said his side was killing him. I went for Doctor Clark about midnight.

I heard the Doctor remark after the death of Mr. Lathey that the tumor had bursted in his side. I do not remember just the time of night. I was with him all the time but had lain down just a short time before he died, and cannot tell the precise time of his death. I have always called it about 48 hours from the time he was first taken bad until his death.

I helped to dress him and put him in the coffin. His side was black on the place where I have seen him lay his hand.

Very soon after he was laid out and dressed, the body became so offensive that we were compelled to burn tar and other stuff, and we were compelled to bury him before the time set for the funeral.

From the time I got home from the Army, I have heard him complain of anything else but of his side. He never had any other ailment than that that I know of.

The attending physician for John Lathey at the time of his death was Dr. J. O. Clark, and his deposition dated August 24, 1886 reads as follows:

Q. Were you acquainted with John T. Lathey?

A. I became personally acquainted with the family by reason of being called as a physician to some of the family. I commenced doing business as the physician for the family sometime in 1867 or 1868. John T. Lathey was at time suffering from what was considered an aneurism in the right iliac region. He had been treated for this disability by Doctors Weed and Airhart.

Q. Where was the tumor located?

A. I should say between the lower ribs and the crest of the ilium of the right side.

Q. When did you first examine the tumor?

A. Sometime in 1867 or 1868 I examined this tumor or as he called it a lump on his side. I found it to be a pulsating tumor or aneurism. I mean to say that it was a genuine aneurism. According to the history of the case as given by John T. Lathey, it had continued ever since he was working at making corduroy roads in West Virginia sometime in 1862 while in the service of the United States. From the first time I examined the aneurism I found its pulsations to be perfectly regular, simultaneous with the action of the heart and the pulsations in other parts of his body.

Q. What was the appearance of your patient at the time he was in his last sickness?

A. When I arrived at his house he was apparently sinking from exhaustion and was in an unconscious condition. I examined the aneurism and found that it had disappeared entirely and I called the attention to some of the people present of this fact that the "lump" in his side had disappeared. And I think if you examine some of the persons who were present at that time, I am quite sure you will find someone or more who will remember the circumstance. The house was full of people and I cannot tell who all were there.

Sarah Lathey was finally awarded a pension from the government of $8.00 and $2.00 for each child until the child reached sixteen years of age retroactive to May, 1872.

Sometime during the summer before John T. Lathey died, he entered into a verbal agreement for the sale of twenty acres of his property in Scipio Township to his sons John T., Jr. and Joseph M. Lathey for $400.

The boys paid their father $200.00 during his lifetime, and paid the administrator of the estate the remaining $200.00 after his death. It was not until June of 1876 that provisions were made by a petition signed by the heirs of John T. Lathey that "authorized the administrator of the estate to make, execute and deliver on behalf of the heirs a deed to Joseph and John T., Jr. for said property."

John T. Lathey³ died intestate May 9, 1872 as recorded at the Meigs County Court House (Vol. I, pp. 58-59). J. W. Benson was appointed administrator of the estate July 17, 1873 with the appraisors Grafton French, Abram Alkire, and Nicholas Sta-veart appointed the same day. Estate File #1551 of the above county gives the inventory of his estate as follows:

1 Stove set up and kept in use by family
1 Family Bible kept for family
3 School Books kept for use by family

1 Stand	1 Desk
1 Bureau	1 Clock
6 Chairs	1 Side Saddle
1 Table and Tableware
3 Beds and Bedding

1 Cow	$20.00
2 Hogs	5.00
1 Cane Mill	10.00
25 Bu. Wheat	25.00
1 Acker corn	30.00
	$80.00

The estate was settled in August, 1875 and the final account presented by the administrator included debits totalling $1,075.40 which included the sale of 20 acres of land to Leonard S. Townsend at public auction for $765.00, notes due him, etc. Expenses paid out of the estate included payment of various store bills, real estate taxes, court costs, and a distributive share to each of his heirs. Each of his children received a share with Sarah receiving the shares for the minor children.

One item of particular interest was a payment of $21.30 to G. G. Webster for John's tombstone. It is said he was buried in the Downingtown (now Wells) Cemetery in Meigs County, Ohio, but we have been unable to locate the stone. The stone has probably deteriorated by this time.

Grandma Lathey was the name by which Sarah (Horner) Lathey was known in her later years. She was honored on her birthday a few years before her death, and a picture was taken of those attending the celebration. Attending were Pearl Lathey, Frank Lathey, Ed Romine, Mrs. Westfall, Sarah and Riley Lathey, Etta Romine, Nora, Charles and George Lathey, Rev. Wilson, Happy Wells, Sadie Petit, Mrs. Epley, and Mildred Young and daughters.

Sarah died January 10, 1912 in Meigs County, Ohio suffering from rheumatism complicated with bronchial pneumonia.

In his application for reimbursement from the government for the last sickness and burial of his mother, Samuel Lathey states his mother "was nursed by her children who make no charge for same." The attending physician was H. C. Day and $50.00 was paid to Biggs and Rappold of Pomeroy, Ohio for her coffin and burial.

Following is a copy of Sarah's obituary as written by her daughter, Elva Alfetta.

GRANDMA LATHEY'S OBITUARY

Sarah Horner was born in Tyler County, Virginia July 27, 1824, departed this life January 10, 1912, aged 87 years, 5 months, and 14 days.

With her parents she came to Ohio in 1834. At the age of 16 she was converted and united with the M. E. Church. She was united in marriage to John Lathey April 21, 1842. To this union were born 12 children, seven of whom are still living, five preceding her to a better land.

In 1872 Mrs. Lathey with her husband and children united with the Christian Church where she remained a tried and true Christian. Her husband departed this life May 9, 1872, leaving Grandma to care for her children and to fight the battle of life herself.

Grandma, as she is familiarly known, was a resident of Harrisonville for about 25 years. She was a great sufferer for about two months, but all the time had the patience of a true Christian and was never to have known to murmur or complain. A short time before she passed away she told her daughter that her life had been all ups and downs. Sometimes the burden would seem too heavy to bear and she would think she would give up. Then she would say "Oh no, that would not do," but now she says "I am so glad to know that all is well and I will soon go to reap my reward for being faithful."

Grandma was a dear good mother, a kind neighbor and a loving friend to all. She was loved by all who knew her, and although she was so old, it was hard to part with her, but she said her prayers had been answered and now she was ready to go . . . all the time, except a very few days during her illness, she was in her right mind and all went well with her.

Mrs. Lathey was the mother of 12 children, five girls and seven boys, one boy dying in infancy. She had 44 grandchildren, 63 great grandchildren, and six great-great grandchildren. She has two boys living in Harrisonville, two in Virginia, one daughter in Marietta, one in Athens, and one at Sumner.

We feel that loving hands did all that could be done, but all to no avail. She selected her own text, her minister, and songs. Oh! how sad to say goodbye to a dear good mother, but we know she is safe in the arms of a loving Savior. So many times she has been heard to express her desire to exchange worlds and be with loved ones over there. Her remains were laid to rest in the Downingtown Cemetery by the side of her husband. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wilson.

THE HORNER FAMILY

"Isaac Horner was a bound boy in Scotland and stole away on a ship to America." That is the family legend of the Tyler/Wetzel County Horner descendants from across the United States. This may very well be true, as several of the New Jersey Horner families have been documented, and Isaac does not fit into any of these families.

The most authentic claim is that Isaac Horner descends from an Isaac Horner born April 17, 1678 in Tadcaster, England to John and Mary (Pearcy) Horner. This Isaac came to America in 1684, and married (1) Elizabeth Sykes and (2) Eleanor Bowen (or Brown). The second union brought forth Isaac Horner, Jr considered to be the father of our Isaac Horner. Isaac Horner, Jr. was married in 1757 to Mary Potts. And all information from the following document and the New Jersey Library claim Isaac Horner, the grandfather of Sarah (Horner) Lathey, was born in 1755.

The first clue as to the origin of the Horners in Tyler County was found in the Revolutionary War records filed under Isaac Horner from New Jersey. A letter of application for his widow's pension was contained therein and it reads as follows:

"On this 13th day of August, 1849, before me, James Wise, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Monongahela, Virginia, personally appeared on oath that she makes the following declaration in order to obtain the benefits of the provisions of the Acts of Congress passed June 17, 1832 on her husband's account up to his death, February 4, 1849, aged 94, and Act of February 2, 1848 granting pension to widows of persons who served during the Revolutionary War, that she is the widow of Isaac Horner who served as drummer and blacksmith for the State of New Jersey; that he resided near New Market, New Jersey, that the said Isaac Horner served as a malitiaman under Capt. Phillip Snooks, a term of eighteen months at two different times, that he was in several skirmishes and at the Battles of Monmouth and Princeton, that she has no documentary evidence to substantiate her claim or any other evidence than her own knowledge and traditions together with what her husband has told her and others that knew him in the service, that she was married to the said Isaac Horner at Penny town (probably Pennington), N. J. in April, 1786, that she has had eleven (11) children, 9 now living, viz. Nathan, Charles, JOHN, Jacob, Eunice, Isaac, Jr., Zilpha, William, and Joseph, eldest aged 62 the youngest 40 (born between 1786/7-1809), that she lived with her husband about 63½ yrs., that she resides near the line of Monongahela and Wetzel and that she is not able to attend court on account of the distance of 30 miles to (New) Martinsville, that it is more convenient for her to have the business done in Monongahela County, that she is carried in a chair 1/4 mile over the line to meet the Justice, that she desires her name to be entered on the pension rolls, that she has resided where she now resides about 39 years, and near the waters of Dunkard about 50 years, that she is now a widow as it will appear by the annexed proof."

S/ Zilpha (her mark) Horner

The letter of application was witnessed by Nehemiah Glover and William Cotton who signed affidavits stating they had known Isaac and Zilpha many years, and that the statements regarding his military service were true.

After the marriage of Isaac and Zilpha Horner, they migrated westward through Pennsylvania to finally settle in Tyler County, Virginia where Isaac located 200 acres of land on Fish Creek by virtue of a Treasury Warrant. This land grant listed on the Tyler County Entry Books and in Sim's Index to Land Grants was a grant made by Lord Fairfax prior to the creation of the Virginia Land Office by the Commonwealth of Virginia of lands now embracing the state of West Virginia under its first Constitution. The property was located in that part of Tyler County, which later became Wetzel County in 1846.

We do not know the exact date of Isaac's entry as that part of the page is torn off the Entry Book. It was recorded in Sim's Index as 1821. However it was earlier as he was listed on the 1820 Tyler County Census with eight of their children, one already married. Within several years of Isaac's entry of land, sons John, Charles, Isaac, Jr., William, and Nathan located on or near their father's property on Fish Creek.

Zilpha Horner was not awarded the pension for Isaac Horner's military service. She failed to return her original papers and could not substantiate her claim. She was living in the household of Joseph Horner and his family when the 1850 Wetzel County Census was taken. Her age was listed as 84 which would make her birth date 1766. According to information in her pension file, she was still living in District 4 of Wetzel County in 1854. I find no record of her death and do not know the burial spots for Isaac or Zilpha.

No information for other two children.

4. JOHN HORNER: Very little is known about the parents of Sarah (Horner) Lathey. Her father was John Horner born in 1796 to Isaac and Zilpha Horner. John Horner married Jemima Bartley in the early 1820's.

Sarah was the first child born to them on July 27, 1824 in Tyler County, (W) Virginia. John located fifty acres of land on Fish Creek in Tyler County ca. 1827-29 near his father's property.

John and Jemima were listed on the 1830 Tyler County Census Records with five children. One male and three female children between 0-5 years of age, and Sarah who was between 5-10 years.

They sold their property on Fish Creek March 25, 1833 to Mary Whistler for $100.00, and the family removed in 1834. It was supposed they moved immediately to Meigs County, but there is no record of them on the 1840 Meigs County Census Report.

We have no knowledge of Sarah's brothers and sisters. Nor do we have information about Jemima Bartley's family.

Study of the 1850 Meigs County Census indicates the Bartley and Horner families may have gone there about the same time. Although I have made no connection at this point a William Horner age 27 b. in Virginia with wife Sarah and children Nancy, Russell, Malinda was living next door to a John Bartley age 35, with wife Sarah and children Asbury, Vanasia, John, and Jane. William Horner could have been a brother to Sarah as her brother was between 0-10 years in 1830.

The marriage of Achsa Horner to Elmore Pierce on January 1, 1844 in Meigs County suggests she may be the sister of Sarah. Peculiar names beginning with "A" were quite common in the Horner family.

It is probably that Jemima (Bartley) Horner died at an early age. We have no information on her following her mark on the real estate transfer in Tyler County in 1833.

John Horner was listed in Wetzel County on the 1850 Census Record residing with his brother Joseph and his family. His occupation was listed as that of a "pauper" and we can only guess that after his wife died and the children married, he came back home to live - a broken man. His death record is not recorded in Wetzel County or surrounding counties.

NOTE: Isaac Horner (1755-1849) served in the American Revolutionary War from Hunterdon County, New Jersey.

NOTE: The Fauquier County Horners descend from Isaac and Eleanor Horner and appeared to be quite affluent, compared to our Horner farmers and blacksmiths.

NOTE: To those who claim German descent through the Horner family, I find Hesse (Hessen) Homers in nearby Counties.

Let's hold to the Horner family legend: "Isaac Horner was a bound boy in Scotland and stole away on a ship to America."

The 1880 Meigs County, Ohio Census finds this family in the same household with Sarah (Horner) Lathey and her three youngest children.

The family removed to Wagoner District in Mason County, West Virginia ca. 1883. John Lathey, Jr. was a farmer and some say he was a minister of the Gospel.

Naoma Lathey died in Mason County February 10, 1990. John T., Jr. was a resident of Jackson Furnace in Mason County when he died September 3, 1891 at the age of 43 years. He and Naoma are interred at Brown's Hill Cemetery in Mason County.

48. JOSEPH MARK LATHEY⁴ was born in Athens County, Ohio November 1, 1849 to John T. and Sarah (Horner) Lathey. He married Emaline Ward in Meigs County, Ohio on April 30, 1871. Emaline was born November 8, 1852 in Meigs County to Philip and Susannah (Norris) Ward.

Joseph and Emaline set up housekeeping Meigs County, and made arrangements to purchase twenty acres of real estate in partnership with John T. Lathey, Jr. The two boys had made an agreement with their father to purchase the land just prior to the death of John T. Lathey. However, because of the sudden death of John T. Lathey in 1872, it was not until June 21, 1876 that a deed in "fee simple" was issued to them. This property was sold by Joseph and John T., Jr. June 3, 1881 to Margaretta Lathey (wife of Alexander) for $300.00.

Joseph and Emaline had removed to Jackson County, W. Va. by this time, with a possible move to Noble County, Ohio in the meantime. The family is listed on the 1880 Census for Jackson County with three sons, the youngest being our George Wilman Lathey, who was barely two years old. Living in the same household with them were Emaline's parents and two sisters. Also, living nearby was Asbury Lathey and his family.

The first real estate transaction by them in Jackson County was dated December 11, 1884 to Emaline Lathey from Philip Ward and his wife, Susan, for six acres on Thirteen Mile Creek for the sum of $100.00. $57.00 was paid at the time of the sale and the remainder was to be paid during the next 3 years.

Joseph and Emaline (Ward) Lathey
Grandson Valcie J. Lathey

Joseph made a living for his family by farming and he and Emaline operated a general store on Foster Ridge for a time. The above pictured grandson remembers visiting them as a young lad.

Joseph and Emaline Lathey did not live together for many years. Emaline went to Dunbar, West Virginia to care for the children of her son, Verde, when his wife passed away. She suffered a stroke while attending the children and was brought to the home of our George (Pete) and Cora Belle (Casto) Lathey. The stroke impaired her speech, and she was bedfast for seventeen years before her death.

Joseph Lathey lived among his relatives during the last years of his life. He would visit one relative until he felt he was not wanted, and then move on to another. Many was the time he visited his son, Pete, and helped in the blacksmith shop. He was a tall, slim man with dark hair, and is remembered by one niece as a "moody man subject to bouts of pouting."

However, his "sayings" are still remembered by one grandson, Harry E. Lathe. Although not all are original, they do indicate a style of living suitable for all generations.

A neighbor is no good if you don't use him.

No one will interrupt a conversation by keeping quiet.

A man is not a man if he will not lend his saddle and ride in the same crowd bareback.

One boy is a boy, two boys half a boy, and three boys no boy at all.

Joseph Lathey was visiting with his youngest sister, Elva Alfetta in Middleport, Ohio, when he passed away in his sleep suffering from Carcinoma of the liver. He died June 1, 1924 and is buried in the Downington Cemetery in Meigs County, Ohio.

Great Grandma Emaline died January 13, 1940 and is buried in the Long Hollow Cemetery in Jackson County, W. Va.

The Romines made their home in Meigs County and are listed on the 1900 Meigs County, Ohio Census as living in Rutland Township. Elva wrote poetry which was most always sad. THE WARD FAMILY

The many families from Pennsylvania moving into the eastern counties of Ohio during the early 1800's by the surname of Ward has made it impossible to search our line of this family any further than the grandparents of Emaline (Ward) Lathey.

ROBERT WARD was born between 1760-1770 in Pennsylvania. Robert's wife's name was Sarah and she was born between the years of 1770-1780 also in Pennsylvania. They were living in Carthage Township of Athens County in 1840 next door to their son, Philip. Records of their deaths have not been located, and since they do not appear on the 1850 Census, we can assume their deaths occurred before that date. They were quite elderly when the 1840 Census was taken.

PHILIP WARD, the son of Robert and Sarah Ward, was born in Ohio in May of 1811. This is according to the 1900 Census Records of Jackson County, W. Va. He was residing with his son, Philip, Jr., and his birthplace was listed Ohio, and that of his parents Pennsylvania.

Philip Ward married Susannah Norris, the daughter of Aaron and Mary (_____) Gould) Norris in Athens County, Ohio on June 20, 1839. They lived for some time in Carthage Township where Philip pursued his occupation as a cooper. A cooper was a skilled worker who made barrels and other containers from wood by hand. Although barrels are now manufactured by machinery, they were made by hand for many hundreds of years. The sides of the barrel were made of strips of wood called staves bound together by metal or hoops. The staves were wider in middle than on the ends, causing bulge in the middle.

This family removed from Athens County, Ohio and were residing in Meigs County by the time the 1860 Census was taken. Their next move was to Jackson County, West Virginia where Philip Ward purchased real estate on Thirteen Mile Creek in 1883. 13-Mile Creek was a tributary of the Kanawha River in the Rockcastle area, supposedly the mouth of the stream was 13 miles up-river from the Ohio. He later sold part of this land to his daughter, Emaline Lathey, and a portion was deeded to his son, Philip Ward, Jr., in 1889. There is also a transaction from Obediah Woodall, et al. to Philip Ward in 1891 for 2 acres described as a church lot at Long Hollow. Long Hollow was located on the Jackson-Mason County lines and named either for the length of the hollow or for a member of the Long family.

We do not know the circumstances of Susannah Ward's death. Her name was on the real estate deeds of 1884 and 1889, so she must have died between 1889 and when the 1900 Census was taken as her name is not listed thereon.

Philip Ward lived to be quite elderly. There is some discrepancy regarding his birth date. His death was reported by Emaline Lathey to the Jackson County, W. Va. Court House, and he died February 14, 1907 from cancer at the age of 90 years, 5 months, 17 days which would make his birth date August 27, 1907. However, the 1900 Census Records give his birth date as May of 1911. I concur as his age was listed as 39, 49, 69, and 89 on the respective Census Records for 1850, 1860, 1880, and 1900.

The burial site of Philip and Susan (Norris) Ward is unknown, but it is believed they are interred in the Long Hollow Cemetery in Jackson County.

THE NORRIS FAMILY

The maternal grandparents of Emaline (Ward) Lathey were Aaron Norris and his second wife, the Widow Gould, who were married in Athens County, Ohio February 13, 1818. Like the Ward family, many by this surname migrated to Ohio during the early 1800's. They came from the north-eastern section of the country across Pennsylvania and into Ohio.

Although study of the 1820 through 1840 Census Records for Athens County, Ohio indicate this union of Aaron and Mary Norris brought forth four children, we can only make positive identification to (1) Susannah and (2) Cornelius.

Aaron Norris died intestate in November of 1848, and his estate account (#204) is filed in the Athens County, Ohio Court House.

Mary Norris renounced her rights to administer the estate of her husband, and issued the following statement on April 24, 1849.

"I do hereby certify that I decline administering the estate of my deceased husband, Aaron Norris, late of Carthage Tp., Athens County, Ohio and I would say to the Court of said County that it is my wish and also the wish of my deceased husband while he was living that David Norris should administrate on his estate."

S/ Mary (her mark) Norris

A notice was given the next day in the newspaper that David Norris was appointed executor of Aaron Norris' estate.

Appraisers appointed for the estate were Moses Elliott, Benjamin Humphrey, and Simon H. Lottridge. His property located in Range 12, Township 3, and Lot No.4 was valued at $583.34 on the estate inventory dated August 3, 1849. $200.00 was given to Mary Norris for her support for twelve months following Aaron's death. Moses Elliott was paid in November of 1848 for making the coffin in the amount of $5.

Heirs to the estate received $7.10 each with David and Cornelius an extra $30.00. The heirs were all probably the children of Aaron Norris, but are not marked as such. They included Aaron Norris, Anna (Norris) Branch, Keziah (Norris) Green the wife of Owen Green, Abraham Norris, Aquilla Norris, George L. Norris, Christopher Norris, William Norris, David Norris, Cornelius Norris, and Susan (Norris) Ward. The receipt for her $7.10 was also signed by Philip Ward.

Mary Norris was living yet in Athens County when the 1850 U. S. Census was taken. She was listed as 57 years of age, and her 22 year old son, Cornelius, was living with her. It is believed she expired between 1850 and 1860.

The 1880 Jackson County Census reveals that Cornelius Norris and his family had also migrated to Jackson County and were living near the Ward and Lathey residence. Cornelius Norris was born in 1828 to Aaron and Mary (Gould) Norris in Athens County, Ohio. He married Malinda _____ ca. 1851 and lived in Meigs County, Ohio for some time before coming to Jackson County.

81. GEORGE WILMAN LATHEY was born May 7, 1878 in Meigs or Noble County, Ohio to Joseph Mark and Emaline (Ward) Lathey. He married Cora Belle Casto February 26, 1899 in Center Point School House in Jackson County. They were married by W. A. Cadia

Cora Belle was born November 2, 1879 in Mason County, West Virginia to George W. and Margaret Frances (Johnston) Casto.

George W. was only two years old when his family moved to Jackson County, West Virginia. He grew to manhood on the property settled by his parents, and it was nearby that he brought his young wife to reside following their marriage.

George Wilman Lathey was known as Pete to his friends and neighbors. Besides the usual farm work, he operated a blacksmith shop. Pete was a cooper (barrel maker) by profession, but besides putting barrels together, he put shoes on horses and oxen, made split bottom chairs and baskets, and repaired wagons. In fact, Pete Lathey was capable of doing almost anything with wood.

Times were hard during the years the children were being raised. There was work for everyone. The boys helped their father in the blacksmith shop, mended the rail fences, and tended to other chores on the farm. The girls helped with the housework and tended the younger children.

Theirs was a good-natured family with most of their entertainment coming from within the family. They "teased" and played pranks on one another endlessly. Pete Lathey would plague his children and grandchildren to the point of tears before he would back off. He always said he wouldn't give a nickle for a child that didn't have any spunk. Perhaps that was one of his ways of preparing the family to cope with the difficult situations he knew they would encounter from time to time. The children of Pete and Cora Belle Lathey display the traits of integrity and honesty as taught to them by their parents.

Pete Lathey sang a lot and taught his "silly song" to his family. In fact, the Latheys are somewhat gifted when it comes to music. Music seems to come natural to some arid they are able to play musical instruments without lessons. The words to many of his compositions have been forgotten, but two of his favorites composed by others and released again within the past few years follow. Perhaps you have forgotten the words, and this will bring back pleasant memories.

 Old Dan Tuck-er! You're too late to come to sup-per."

Following are other words for the tune of "Old Dan Tucker." I do not remember the verses and chorus being so lengthly, but you will find the extra verses below will fit the music in spots. These words were remembered by Uncle Harry.

Ole Dan Tucker went to town,
 Two legs up and two legs down.
 Ole Dan Tucker is big and fat,
 He's black in the face as my old hat.
 Ole Dan Tucker is a dirty ole hog.
 He played 7-up with a nigger on a log.
 Ole Dan Tucker went to town
 On a load of switches.
 He pulled and pulled and pulled and

 Ole Dan Tucker flew east and west.
 Then he flew over the Coo-Coo's nest.
 Old Dan Tucker went down the hill.
 Hain't came back. He's down there still Ole Dan Tucker lost his shoe.
 If he finds it soon) he'll tag along,

 Ole Dan Tucker went to town
 On a load of lumber.
 Had forgot he had beans for dinner,
 And blowed it all to thunder.

Grandma Lathey was a quiet and patient wife and mother. She was acquainted with hard work and hard times, explaining to me that she began working outside the home as a mere child of eight or nine years of age. When Cora's mother-in-law suffered the stroke which left her bedfast, Grandma Cora nursed her for seventeen years.

We eagerly looked forward to our summer visits with Grandma and Grandpa. Grandma was a tolerant and kind grandmother, teaching me to "milk" just enough to fill my blue cereal bowl, which had come in the Mother's Quaker Oats box, for the breakfast oatmeal. It was my chore to turn the cream separator, and to "help" with the laundry by cranking the wringer as she washed clothes on the board.

Pete and Cora left their home in Jackson County around 1942-43 and removed to Pleasants County, W. Va., where Grandpa died December 16, 1945. Just as the wives of the Lathey men before her, Grandma spent the remaining years among her children. She died April 27, 1956 at the home of her son, Oris, in Jackson County. Both are buried in the Foster Chapel Cemetery in Jackson County, West Virginia.

The following tracts of land owned by George and Cora Belle Lathey in Jackson County were deeded to Royal Kessel and Hugh P. McLaughlin in January of 1960. The deed was signed by all the children and their spouses, bringing to a close the official records of this couple.

THE CASTO FAMILY

Recent data located on this family maintains that the Casto people belonged to one of the Celtic tribes dwelling in Germany before the beginning of the Christian Era. Julius Caesar (100?-44 BC) conquered Germany during his reign of the Roman Empire, and after his day Roman military settlements called "castra" or camps began along the valleys of the Danube and Rhine rivers, since these were considered the boundaries of the Roman Empire. (Some feel the surname "casto" probably came from the Latin word "castra.")

After the fall of the Roman Empire in 476 AD, one branch of this family removed to Italy and adopted the spelling of "Castoe." Another branch of the family settled in Spain where the name was spelled "Castro." These people established their homes in Castile and later went to live in the Province of Aragon. They later migrated to Wales, one of the British Isles, where they dropped the "r" and the name became "CASTO."

Many claim a French connection saying they descend from Alsace, France (then Alsace, Germany). Alsace is located in northwestern France on the French and German border, and has long been a prize in wars between France and Germany. Spelling of the name in French was "Casteaux," the "eaux" being pronounced "o." This branch of the family also migrated to Wales.

Information indicates the Casto people began to leave Germany during the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648). This war was the last of the great religious-wars of Europe, and began as a civil war between the Protestants and Roman Catholics in the German states, but eventually involved most of the nations in Europe.

We are thinking in terms of hundreds of years, and it is indeed possible that members of the Casto family did live in some or all the areas mentioned. Also, please note the similarity of origin as reflected in the various family legends concerning the "roots" of the family.

1. Two boys on a Spanish ship were captured by the English; brought to America and sold as servants in New Jersey; one name was spelled Casto and the other Castro; descendants of the real Casto next heard of on the Buckhannon River in Va.
2. Two brothers came from France to Virginia in order to escape religious persecution and possible death.
3. Two brothers in England, sons of moderately wealthy parents, were stolen by gypsies and brought to America.
4. Two brothers shipwrecked off the Carolina coast landed finally, one in New Jersey and the other in Virginia.
5. Two brothers, ages five and seven, hid on a ship in a French port after their parents had been murdered and their home burned. At sea for three days without food, the children were forced to come out of hiding. They found themselves on the ship of the buccaneer, Captain William Kidd, who compelled them to work for him two years before he set them ashore, one in New Jersey, the other in Rhode Island. The legend of our Casto line comes by way of George Washington Casto (1846-1926) who told his children the name had originally been CASTRO, indicating his line did come from Spain via England.

It is commonly accepted that all members of the Casto family in West Virginia stem from the same ancestry, coming from New Jersey through Pennsylvania and into the South Branch of the Potomac River to finally settle on the Buckhannon River in Harrison County, Virginia as early as 1770, with some of the family migrating into Mason County (now Jackson) County during and following the War of 1812.

AZARIAH CASTOI was one of the first by this family name to reach the American Colonies, coming from Wales to New Jersey in 1696. It is generally agreed that he is the progenitor of the Jackson County Casto families.

Azariah married a lady of Irish ancestry, and they established their home in Egg Harbor, New Jersey. Some of their known children were David, Azariah, William, and Martha.

The marriage of David Casto to Phebe Gandy is recorded in Cape May, New Jersey Baptist Church on August 17, 1752. It is believed Phebe was the daughter of Thomas Gandy (Gandee) as she was mentioned in his will of May 2, 1748 among his heirs. David was probably the son of the above Azariah, and the same David Casto listed on the 1790 United States Census of Virginia. We also find the Gandee family in the same area, and later on in Jackson County.

WILLIAM CASTO² was born March 10, 1717. Information from the Bible records of Wm. and Sarah Casto of Bridgeton (Deerfield County), New Jersey list the following entries:

William Casto b. March 10 1717
Purthenis Casto d. January 6, 1752
(William's 1st wife)

Abijah Casto b. May 28, 1777

WILLIAM CASTO² served in the American Revolutionary War as a Private in Cumberland County Militia attached to the New Jersey Continental Line for six weeks during the winter of 1777.

Abel, Azariah and David Casto also served in the New Jersey Militia and saw active service during the Revolutionary War. David and Azariah were described as being 5'10" high, straight and well set with darkish or swarthy complexion.

The Will of William Casto² was dated July 22, 1777 and proved August 26, 1778. It reads in part as follows:

"William Casto of Deerfield, Cumberland Co., yeoman; Will of. 100 acres of land is to be divided off from the north side of my plantation, adjoining Jacob Joslin. Son, Abel, 50 acres of the said 100. Son, Azariah, the other 50. Daughter, Elizabeth Kille, 5 pounds. Wife, Sarah, my house and rest of lands, and she is to educate my children. My other children JOHN, Andrew, David, Jonathan, Jeremiah, William, Jacob, Thomas and Abijah, the said house and lands left to my wife, after her term is ended. I have given a gun to my son JOHN, and one to my son Andrew, and 2 acres of flax to Andrew and David; and I request my good friend, Eleazer Smith, to take care of same for their use." Witnesses were Jacob Joslin, James Ewing, and Elizabeth Johnson.

NOTE: It would appear that our John Casto was the son of William Casto as evidenced by the foregoing will and records from the Bible belonging to William Casto. However, the New Jersey Malitia Census of 1793 (which included all eligible males between 18-45 years) lists the following Casto men - John, Jacob, Jeremiah, William. And research on our John Casto reveals that he had migrated into Virginia before the 1790 Census was taken for Virginia. The John Casto listed on the New Jersey Malitia Census may be a descendant of another Casto. Or, our ancestry may come through another William Casto since the Casto family, too, held to the family name idea.

JOHN CASTO³ was over forty-five years of age when the 1790 Virginia Census was taken for Harrison County. Descendants claim that he located near Buckhannon about 1789. It is known he had a brother named William, and John Casto said their father was from New Jersey and his name was William Casto.

The marriage record for John Casto has not been found, and we do not know the name of his wife. As with the other Casto families who migrated into Virginia, John came by way of Pennsylvania as the birth of their son, John J. Casto, took place there in 1787, just prior to their move into Virginia.

An outline of the Casto families in Jackson County show they descend from three men who came from the same place in Lewis or Upshur (then Harrison) Counties to Mason (now Jackson) County. The three Casto families were those of William, George, and John. John and William are said to be brothers of each other, and perhaps cousins of George Casto.

JOHN CASTO³ settled on Mill Creek not far above Ripley sometime around 1815-20. One record says he was the first settler "on a raised piece of ground directly across the mouth of Tug Fork, one of the most beautiful building sites in Jackson County." Across on the other side of the hill was the pioneer graveyard, the exact site is long since lost. This was known as the Windom farm in later years.

John was from the Buckhannon River settlement. His children were married when he came to Jackson County. They were:

1. John J. Casto (Big John) b. 1787 in Pennsylvania; married Gracie McDade.
2. Daniel Casto marr. Polly Shamblin
3. William Casto marr. Susannah Rollins

WILLIAM CASTO⁴ was married to Susannah Rollins. They lived first up Tug Fork, and probably moved out to Mill Creek not long after 1816.

The story of William Casto as related in Dr. House's paper is that "William was found dead in the woods, having been shot.

The body was lying by a log, and the supposition was that he had been sitting on the log imitating the call of the wild turkey to attract the attention of those birds, when some other hunter, hearing him and not fairly seeing him, mistook him for a turkey and shot him." This accident must have occurred around 1825-26. William Casto is presumed buried in the pioneer cemetery along with others of the earliest settlers near the place his father settled.

Susannah (Rollins) Casto was born between 1780 and 1790, and is listed as the Head of the Household on the 18JO Mason County, Virginia Census. The parantage of the several brothers and sisters of the Rollins family who came from the Buckhannon settlement to Mill Creek about 1811 is not known. Susannah Rollins and William Casto were already married when they arrived in Jackson County. Some say Susannah was the daughter of Elijah Rollins; other resources claim she was a sister to Elijah. Age difference was such that she could very well have been a daughter. Elijah was fifty-six years of age in 1820, and Susannah was only between 16-26 years of age. The date of Susannah's death is not known.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM AND SUSANNAH CASTO

She is interred in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery near Given in Jackson County.

George R. Casto was a farmer and lived his entire life in Jackson County. One George R. Casto was active in the Pleasant Hill Church serving as a trustee and Sun-School Superintendent. I suspect it may be our George R. Casto since his first wife is buried in that cemetery. George died March 4, 1903, almost 77 years of age.

DEWEESE FAMILY

The parents of Susannah Deweese were living in Jackson County near George and Susannah Casto when the 1850 Census was taken. Samuel Deweese was born ca. 1785 in Pennsylvania and her mother, Edith, was born in 1788 in Virginia. There is no record of their marriage, but they probably married in the early 1820's as Susannah was one of their oldest children. The couple resided in Preston County, Virginia at one time and were residents of Jackson County by 1840. Following are the known children of Samuel and Edith Deweese. There were probably other children.

1. Edith Deweese b. 1822; marr. Christopher Hershman September 15, 1850 Jackson Co.
2. Susannah Deweese marr. George R. Casto

3. Benjamin C. Deweese b. 1828; marr. (1) Grace Casto November 5, 1848 in Jackson County (2) Nancy A. Hershman January 8, 1857 Jackson County. (Question reg. first marriage.)

6. Henry S. Deweese b. 1834; marr. Mary E. Barnhart April 12, 1863 in Jackson County; served in Civil War.

GEORGE WASHINGTON CASTO⁶ was born August 9, 1847 in Jackson County, (W) Virginal to George R. and Susannah (Deweese) Casto. He married (1) C. Barber in Jackson County September 29, 1870. She was the daughter of Sol. and C. Barber from Meigs County, Ohio, and was fifteen years old when she married George W. Casto. We know of two children by this marriage as listed on the 1880 Census for Mason Co. (a) Champ Casto b. 1873 and (b) Margaret Casto b. 1875; married _____ Myers; died in Franklin Co., Ohio; bur. Logan, Ohio.

It seems Margaret was very temperamental and somewhat resentful of her new step-mother. Our grandmother told this story about her step-sister, Maggie Casto. Maggie was sent to return dishes her mother had borrowed from a neighbor when it was her turn to feed the threshers as they moved from farm to farm to harvest the wheat. After some time the neighbor inquired about her dishes, and it was discovered Maggie had broken the dishes and hid them in a log.

GEORGE WASHINGTON CASTO was known as "Wash" Casto. He married (2) Margaret Frances Johnston in Mason County, W. Va. December 1J, 1878. Margaret (or Fannie) was born December 8, 1856 to Abraham and Susannah (McMillen) Johnston. The Bible records give her birthplace as Greenbrier County.

This couple resided in Cologne District in Mason County, West Virginia until 1891-92 when they removed to Jackson County. Wash farmed in Jackson County. The family moved to Ohio in 190J where he was employed by the railroad.

Maggie (Johnston) Casto was afflicted with a goiter. You will notice in her photograph that she held her head at an angle to hide the goiter.

Wash Casto died November 1J, 1926 in Logan (Hocking County), Ohio. Margaret died December 29, 1928 in Columbus (Franklin County), Ohio. They are buried in the Oak Grove Cemetery in Logan, Ohio.

JOHNSTON FAMILY

Abraham Johnston, the father of Margaret Johnston was born ca. 1827 in Virginia. He died before the 1900 Census was taken for Mason County, W. Va. Margaret's mother, Susannah L. (McMillen) Johnston was born in Virginia, and her parents were born in Kentucky. Susannah was born in September of 18J4. We are not certain of her parentage. A James McMillen (age 65 and a shoemaker) was living in the same household of Abraham and Susannah in 1850. He may have been her grandfather, or even her father. However, there were two McMillen families living nearby, and Susan could fit in either the family of Joseph and Susan McMillen or Samuel and Rebecca McMillen.

Susannah (McMillen) Johnston was yet living when the 1900 Census was taken. She was living with her son, John W., in Cologne District of Mason County. Information contained thereon shows she had given birth to twelve children and six were still living at that time.

11. Clara Belle Johnston b. 1877; no other information.

Gertrude (Aunt Gertie) Bolinger remembers hearing about Uncle Jay (John), Uncle Hezle, Uncle Frank, Aunt Ellen, and Aunt Clara. Although I find no record of Ellen, she was probably the twelfth child born to Susan (McMillen) Johnston.

Susannah Johnston was marked with an abnormality of her mouth. Aunt Gertie said her mouth was shaped perfectly, except for two blister-like marks on either side of her upper lip.

We can claim descent from Ireland on both the McMillen and Johnston lines.

The following snapshot of Valcie and Ethel Lathey and his parents, George and Cora Belle Lathey, was taken In the early 1940's in Mason County.

Valcie (sometimes called V. J. or Cap) and Ethel purchased 61 acres of real estate on Parchment Creek in Jackson County soon after their marriage, and it was there he received his call into the ministry. He was licensed to preach in the United Brethren Church of Christ in 1924 and granted his license to "celebrate the Rite of Matrimony" from the Jackson County Court June 27, 1924 under bond in the penalty of $1,500.00 with his father as suretor. He was first assigned a charge in Wirt County near Elizabeth, W. Va.

V. J. received his high school education via a correspondence school out of Chicago, and completed his theological studies while pastoring the three churches in Wirt County (Bethel, Mt. Hope, and Gates Ridge). He was ordained into the ministry September 7, 1933 at Clarksburg, W. Va. by the officiating Bishop G. D. Batdorf of the United Brethren Church of Christ (now United Methodist).

He served six pastorates in the West Virginia Conference over a period of 26 years in Wirt, Tyler, Mason, Wood and Doddridge Counties. He then transferred to the Ohio Sandusky Coference in 1951 where failing health caused him to retire to Mason County in April of 1960.

At one time, chicken was the main fare for Sunday dinner and Valcie did not relish the dish. He always said he lacked that much of being a preacher •. Another remark remembered by his grandchildren was always repeated at meal time when there was company, "We have lots to eat and its been well prepared."

Ethel (Taylor) Lathey now resides in Parkersburg, West Virginia.
